Governor Arnold Schwarzenegger
State Capitol Building
Sacramento, CA 95814

Dear Governor Schwarzenegger,

We ask you to stand with us in opposition to the dangerous additions to the Climate Action Reserve (CAR) Forest Project Protocols that allow logging companies to collect carbon credits for clearcut logging. This policy legitimizes the logging industry's worst practice – a practice that many logging companies and the U.S. Forest Service have already abandoned in California. Allowing carbon credits for clearcutting Sierra Nevada forests is scientifically and morally bankrupt. We ask for your support in securing carbon-trading policies that cut carbon emissions while protecting the people and natural beauty of the Sierra Nevada.

Residents of the greater-Arnold area live in the shadow of Calaveras Big Trees State Park, whose giant sequoias made California world famous in the 1850s. The exploitation of those giant trees made forest protection a national priority and conservation a fundamental American value. But as residents, we also live among an ever-growing mosaic of Sierra forest clearcuts. Look behind highway “beauty strips” and you’ll find clearcuts that threaten our fire safety, water quality and quantity, wildlife habitat, natural forest diversity and beauty, and our recreation-based economy. Clearcutting is unnecessary and dangerous. Now, the Climate Action Reserve has bowed to the wishes of a few powerful logging companies, and changed their rules to allow clearcutting as an acceptable part of their forestry management protocols for carbon sequestration.

As the Governor of California you have provided important leadership in the effort to address climate change. But California's credibility on this issue is undermined when we allow corporations to compromise the carbon trading system. How can we preach to the rest of the world about the need to curtail deforestation in South America and Indonesia when our own approach encourages destructive logging practices that exacerbate climate change and destroy important forest benefits such as wildlife habitat and biodiversity?

We ask that you exercise your considerable influence and support our efforts to roll back the unfortunate and dangerous additions to the Climate Action Reserves Forest Protocols that introduced clearcutting as a means to offset carbon emissions from other sources.

Those of us living in the Sierra Nevada know first hand that climate change is real. We see its impacts happening all around us. Clearcut logging exacerbates these effects and has no place in any strategy to combat climate change. The science on forests and carbon corroborates this view. The thousands of acres of clearcut forest surrounding us are net carbon emitters for 20 or more years after replanting. The limited tree species in these tree plantations encourage insect infestation and, for up to 40 years, are conducive to catastrophic crown fires, which threaten our safety, water, and regional beauty. Clearcutting increases the early runoff of our diminishing snowpack, leaving less water during the dry summer months and creating greater water storage needs downstream since over 60 percent of California's water comes from our region.

We know you understand the long-term effects of clearcutting. In April of 2008 you so eloquently and accurately said that:

While it may be possible for an operator to harvest at elevated rates from a given forest for a short period of time, unsustainable forestry practices will devalue the large stock of remaining trees, degrade water quality in streams and tributaries and impair vital habitat for salmon and endangered species – all of which result in detrimental economic impact. Sustainable forestry, harvesting trees at a rate that can be maintained or grown over many decades in a way that keeps or improves the ecological values of the forest, is essential to maximize the long-term value of the forest.

As Governor you signed legislation creating the Sierra Nevada Conservancy that works to “improve the environmental, economic and social well-being of the Sierra Nevada Region, its communities and the citizens of California.” Clearcutting works against that mission and destroys the beauty, diversity, and resource benefits of this special place.

As residents of this unique forest that John Muir called the “range of light,” we implore you to help reverse a misguided policy decision that financially rewards a few companies, but damages the Sierra, all Californians, and the world's climate. We, better than anyone, recognize the impacts of climate change and support immediate action. But that imperative for action will prove meaningless if it legitimizes clearcutting. Not only will we fail to adequately slash our carbon emissions, but worse, we are rejecting the fundamental values we learned 150 years ago from our giant sequoia. Those values should guide our response to the climate crisis.

We look forward to working with you to address this problem. Thank you for your serious consideration of our concerns.
